CARVER TECHNOLOGIES ACQUIRED BY FOUNDERS OF CIO

Montreal, Quebec (May 27, 2009) – Five years after selling CIO (Virtuo product line) to MediSolution, Jacques Voyer and Daniel Ducharme have acquired the software development firm Carver Technologies.

Started in Montreal over 25 years ago by software developer Tom Green, Carver is known for its unique Umana line of integrated bilingual human resources and payroll products designed for businesses of 150 employees and more. Carver Technologies is one of the few companies in its domain to have succeeded both in Quebec as well as the rest of Canada.

The years of experience of the new partners in the Canadian business software field will permit Carver Technologies to grow rapidly and meet the needs of both the private and public sectors. Daniel Ducharme brings his financial and management experience as well as software design skills to assist Tom Green, who remains responsible for product research and development. Jacques Voyer, for his part, brings a proven track record in software product marketing and will make the Umana products available throughout Canada. Two Carver employees have also become partners at this time.

Already implemented at the Quebec National Library (Bibliothèque et Archives nationales du Québec) and the Ontario Energy Board, “The Umana products have a great future”, said Jacques Voyer.

Carver president, Tom Green, added “the new management team will benefit existing clients and insure steady growth in the coming years. What is particularly exciting for me is the possibility of focusing more on R & D and the new technologies coming in our new Umana products.
